About the Program:

One of the oldest subjects known to mankind is Statistics. Ancient humans used statistics in every aspect of their life. Some of them believe that it is a new discipline as it evolved after mathematics. In the olden days statistics was considered as "Science Statecraft." Statistics existed far before than what we think. In modern era there is no such field where statistics cannot be applied or is not useful. It may be social sciences, management, mathematics, economics, marketing, research etc., it is one of the crucial part.

Without proper statistics, planning is not possible as it helps in business and economic growth; regarding mathematics it is related as well as entirely dependent. Statistics and economics are interrelated with each other. It is impossible to separate them. In social science, the variation in observations from time to time, object to object, and place to place is possible with the help of statistics. Even in the case of research, statistics plays an important role as the researcher presents the data before the community which has been analysed using various statistical methods for problem solving under different conditions. Considering these facts, it is crystal clear that's statistics is extremely useful in business activities and therefore there is a need to make the students aware about the role of statistics in business and how to apply in practice.
